

EVERYMAN
THEATRE · CHELTENHAM

TEACHING RESOURCES

CINDERELLA TEACHING RESOURCES

These educational resources have been designed for you to bring the skills, lessons and fun of the theatre directly to your school or group. We have included activities that you can pick up and use in the classroom - with elements from across the curriculum - to explore the story of Cinderella and the pantomime tradition.

CONTENTS

Education at the Everyman	2
Plot Summary	3 & 4
Plot Game: True or False	5
Pantomime: History & Traditions	6
History & Traditions: Quiz	7
The Cast of Cinderella	8
Cast Matching Game	9
Lesson Plan: Costume	10 & 11
Costume Design Competition	12
Lesson Plan: Set Design	13 & 14
Lesson Plan: Literacy	15
Lesson Plan: Drama and Oracy	16 & 17
About the Everyman	18
Everyman Education Centre	19
Thank you	20

GET INVOLVED:

Panto Workshops
Mon 21 Dec

Can't Stop the Beat
Tuesdays 5 - 6pm

Everykid
Saturday mornings

EDUCATION AT THE EVERYMAN

Hello and welcome to the Everyman Theatre's Pantomime Teaching Resources. We've developed a collection of fun, practical activities and useful information to accompany your trip to the theatre this season. Oh yes we have!

Our magical pantomime, Cinderella, is a timeless story with the addition of our usual Everyman sparkle and humour. Over these pages, we'll take a look at some of the traditional aspects of pantomime, as well as exploring what it takes to make Cinderella so special. Host a pantomime quiz for your class or group on page 6 or design your own pantomime costume to be in with a chance of winning tickets for Tweedy's new show on page 12*.*

Here at the Everyman, everyone's been working their socks off throughout the panto development process: writing, rehearsing, choreographing, sewing, painting and much more. But that's not all! Behind the scenes in the Education and Community Department, we have been visiting schools and community groups with our Panto Talks and Workshops. By the end of the season we will have visited over 200 young people, exploring characters, costume, storytelling and performance. We will be running more workshops in 2027, so please do ask about workshops for your school or group when you're booking tickets.

But theatre is not just for panto! Our Education and Community department work on projects with schools and communities year-round. With the opening of our new Education Centre on Grove Street, the Everyman is placing learning at the forefront of our programme. We're always keen to develop our relationships with schools, as well as supporting teachers and young people. If you'd like to know about our education projects, or would like to work together, we would love to hear from you. Email our Education & Youth Theatre Manager, Stella via stella.buckland@everymantheatre.org.uk. We look forward to seeing you soon!

PLOT SUMMARY - ACT 1

The Prince's best friend Dandini announces that the Prince needs to find a royal bride. The palace will host a royal ball and invite everyone in the county!

Over at Hard-up Hall, Cinderella is looking for her best friend, Buttons. Buttons is very funny and silly and always cheers Cinderella up.

Cinderella and Buttons are getting ready to welcome Cinderella's new stepsisters to their home. Their names are Lavinia and Lucinda. When they arrive they are horrible to Cinderella. They say mean things to her and make her do all of the cooking and cleaning for them. Lavinia and Lucinda are desperate to marry the Prince and become rich and famous.

Meanwhile, over at the palace, Dandini and the Prince are walking in the gardens. They bump into Buttons and ask how many invitations he needs. He needs three - two for the mean stepsisters and one for Cinderella.

The Prince and Dandini keep walking when they bump into the two stepsisters. Oh no! The Prince definitely doesn't want to marry them. In fact, he doesn't want them to know who he is at all. The Prince persuades Dandini to swap outfits so that the stepsisters think Dandini is the Prince and the Prince is Dandini.

Luckily, the Prince manages to slip away and escape from the stepsisters. He bumps into Cinderella while he's still wearing Dandini's outfit. As they are talking, they realise they both really like each other but soon Cinderella has to go. Sadly, the Prince doesn't know her name and Cinderella thinks he is Dandini.

Back at Hard-up Hall, everyone is excited and getting ready for the ball. Cinderella is ready in a very precious old gown that belonged to her mother. The stepsisters are very cruel to her and destroy her dress. She can no longer go to the ball because she has nothing else nice enough to wear. She can't go to a ball dressed in rags!

Lavinia and Lucinda laugh and head off to the ball and Cinderella is left feeling sad. Buttons tries to cheer her up but soon heads off to bed, leaving Cinderella to finish clearing the kitchen for the night.

Suddenly she hears a twinkling noise and, in a puff of smoke, a magical fairy appears. It's Cinderella's Fairy Godmother!

The fairy godmother says that Cinderella will go to the ball and she uses her magic to create a beautiful dress for Cinderella, as well as glass slippers. She transforms a pumpkin into a carriage and sends Cinderella off to the ball, but she gives Cinderella a warning too. Cinderella must be back by midnight because that's when the magic stops working.

In her new finery, Cinderella heads to the royal ball.

PLOT SUMMARY - ACT 2

At the palace, the guests are arriving at the royal ball.

Lucinda and Lavinia head straight for Dandini because they still believe he is the Prince. Dandini explains that he is actually the Prince's best friend. The stepsisters are disappointed at being tricked but they immediately head straight for the Prince to try to dance with him.

Suddenly, everyone's attention is drawn to a new arrival at the ball. The most wonderful lady has arrived wearing a beautiful ball gown! Everyone is astounded and wonders who could she be. The stepsisters don't recognise that it is Cinderella.

The Prince asks to dance with her and they dance together all night long! Cinderella is having such a magnificent evening that she loses track of the time.

Suddenly, the bells start ringing for midnight. Dong! Dong! Dong!

Cinderella must leave as soon as she can, before the magic stops working. As she runs out of the palace and down the staircase, she loses one of her glass slippers but she doesn't have time to retrieve it.

The Prince can't believe this wonderful and mysterious lady is leaving. He races after her but she is already out of sight. He spots the slipper upon the stair and vows to find and marry the lady whose foot fits this slipper!

The next day the Prince and Dandini search across the county but they couldn't find the lady anywhere.

Lucinda and Lavinia hear about the Prince's quest and decide that their feet must fit into the glass slipper. They lock Cinderella away in a cupboard to make sure the Prince won't see her.

The Prince and Dandini arrive at Hard-up Hall but no matter how hard they try the two stepsisters' feet are much too big to fit the delicate glass slipper.

Just as the Prince is about to leave, Dandini remembers that he gave Buttons three invitations to the royal ball. Two for the sisters and one for another lady. The Prince demands to see the last lady of the house. Buttons finds the key to unlock the door and Cinderella is free to try on the glass slipper.

The slipper fits her foot perfectly. The Prince is overjoyed; he has found the wonderful lady that he has fallen in love with.

The Prince asks Cinderella if she will marry him and she says yes. Everyone is delighted - apart from the two mean stepsisters who are tasked with cleaning the entire palace ready for the wedding!

Questions for class:
What do you think of the story?
How is this version of Cinderella similar or different to other Cinderella stories you have read or seen?
Who is your favourite character and why?
What do you think of the ending? Do you think it is fair or unfair?
If you could change one thing about the story, what would that be?
If you had a Fairy Godmother, what would she help you with?

PLOT SUMMARY - TRUE OR FALSE

Cinderella is a very old tale which means that there are many different versions of the story. The Everyman pantomime of Cinderella might not be exactly the same as the story you've read at home or school.

Objectives: Listen and understand the major plot points of the story. Test listening and recall skills. Recap any areas of uncertainty.
Activity: Read the plot summary aloud to the group. Make TRUE or FALSE cards for students to hold up (or just shout out!) and ask if the following statements are true or false. If false, ask for a new, correct statement.

1. The Prince's best friend Dandini announces that the Prince needs to find a royal bride. True or False?
TRUE

2. Cinderella has a best friend called bowtie and he's really grumpy and miserable all the time. True or False?
FALSE - Cinderella's best friend is called Buttons and he is very funny and silly.

3. Cinderella has three kind-hearted and generous stepsisters who are called Margaret, Norman and Toothpaste. True or False?
FALSE - Cinderella has two mean stepsisters called Lucinda and Lavinia.

4. In order to avoid the stepsisters, the Prince disguises himself as an owl and flies away to the moon. True or False?
FALSE - The Prince and Dandini swap outfits and pretend to be each other.

4. When Cinderella first tries to go to the ball, she wears a precious old gown which belonged to her mother. True or False? TRUE

5. Cinderella's Fairy Godmother uses her magic to make Cinderella a very large hat, some football boots and she transforms some spaghetti into a lawn mower. True or False?
FALSE - Cinderella's Fairy Godmother uses her magic to make Cinderella a beautiful dress, glass slippers and she transforms a pumpkin into a carriage.

6. When Cinderella arrives at the ball, everyone is amazed to see such a beautiful lady but no one recognises her. True or False? TRUE

7. Cinderella realises she needs to go home when a goose starts honking at her. True or False?
FALSE - Cinderella realises she needs to go home when she hears the bells ringing for midnight.

8. When she runs away from the palace, Cinderella leaves behind her favourite teddy bear and her big hat. True or False?
FALSE - When she runs away from the palace, Cinderella leaves one glass slipper behind.

9. The glass slipper doesn't fit the stepsisters' feet because they are too big. True or False? TRUE

10. At the end of the story Cinderella challenges the Prince to a game of football. True or False?
FALSE - The Prince asks Cinderella if she will marry him.

PANTOMIME: HISTORY & TRADITIONS

Ancient Greece

The word ‘pantomime’ comes from the ancient Greek word pantomimos, meaning "imitator of all". In these ancient Greek shows, one actor would play all of the parts by themselves - and they wouldn’t speak, instead they would tell the story through movement, gesture and dance.

Do you think you could tell a story without using any words?

Commedia Dell’arte

One of the main origins of the British pantomime was a popular form of entertainment in Italy in the 16th century called commedia dell’arte. Translated from Italian, commedia dell’arte means ‘professional plays’ or ‘professional comedy’ - because it’s important to take comedy seriously.

Small, professional companies would tour around Italy and France, setting up in town squares and fairgrounds to tell stories. Even though the stories were different, they would all feature the same characters such as Harlequin (a servant who gets into all kinds of trouble), Pantalone (an old man who wants to be very rich and stop young people falling in love) and Colombina (a young maid who is very clever).

Do any of these commedia dell’arte characters remind you of characters you might see in a pantomime?

Medieval Mystery Plays

In the UK, we didn’t have commedia dell’arte but instead the theatre tradition started with medieval mystery plays. These plays took place during festival times in towns and villages but even though they are called ‘mystery’ plays, they weren’t about detectives with moustaches solving crimes. The word ‘mystery’ comes from the French word mystère, meaning craft because the plays were put on by local guilds and craftsmen.

The plays told stories from the Bible and from this we find the origin of important pantomime staging: in medieval mystery plays, heaven was always stage right and hell was always stage left.

Have you noticed in pantomimes that the good fairy always enters from stage right and the villain enters from stage left?

First Pantomimes in England

“Pantomime” was first used on a poster in 1717. A few years later, a man called John Rich made pantomimes even more popular. Mr Rich had a lot of jobs including theatre manager, dancer and mime but he also took on the role of the clown in his pantomimes and added lots of magic and even fireworks!

Why do you think magic and fireworks made the pantomime more popular?

Why do we see pantomimes at Christmas time?

A theatre manager named David Garrick didn’t like pantomimes because he thought people should go to see serious shows like Shakespeare. Unfortunately for him, more people bought tickets to see the pantomime than any other shows so he decided he must put on a panto to make some money. However he would only allow pantomimes during the fun festive season because the rest of the year was for serious theatre!

Would you go to see a pantomime if it wasn’t Christmas time? Why or why not?

HISTORY & TRADITIONS: QUIZ

Pantomime has a long and rich history. Even though it is considered to be a unique British tradition, lots of elements of pantomime come from across the world.

Objectives: Listen and understand the historical roots of pantomime. Test listening and recall skills.
Activity: Read the Pantomimes: History & Traditions information aloud to the group. Ask students to recall the correct answer.

1. The word pantomime comes from which ancient civilisation?
A. Ancient Rome B. Ancient Greece C. Ancient Saucepan

2. In the 'pantomimos' in ancient Greece, how many performers were there?
A. One B. Twelve. C. Four

3. In English, what does 'commedia dell'arte' mean?
A. Professional comedy B. Comedy about art C. Hilarious paintings

4. What was the name of the commedia dell'arte character who is a servant who gets into trouble?
A. Tweedy B. Krusty C. Harlequin

5. Medieval mystery plays told what kind of stories?
A. Stories from the Bible B. Fairy tales C. Local gossip

6. In medieval mystery plays, where did the evil characters come from?
A. Stage left B. Stage right C. The audience

7. When was the word 'pantomime' first used on a theatre poster?
A. 1616 B. 1717 C. 2020

8. What was one of Mr Rich's jobs?
A. Zookeeper B. Police officer C. Mime

9. What was the name of the theatre manager who didn't like pantomimes?
A. Harry Kane B. Dua Lipa C. David Garrick

10. What did this theatre manager believe that people should go to see instead of pantomimes?
A. Shakespeare B. Waiting for Godot
C. Shirley Valentine

Answers:
1B, 2A, 3A, 4C, 5A, 6A, 7B, 8C, 9C, 10A

THE CAST OF CINDERELLA

Pantomime performers are also known as 'triple threats' because they're skilled in acting, dancing AND singing (sometimes all at the same time).

Over the festive season our cast will perform the show more than 70 times - an average of more than 12 shows per week!

Group discussion questions:

Are there any actors who you've seen on the Everyman stage before?
If you had to choose a part to play in the pantomime, which role would you choose?
Which role do you think would be the most challenging to play?

CAST MATCHING GAME

There are many different pantomime stories but they all feature the same colourful characters, such as the clown, the heroine and the villain - though they have different names in each story. These are called 'stock characters'. Each one has a special role to make the story fun and exciting.

Objective: Understand the stock characters in a pantomime.
Activity: Read the description of each stock character. Match them to the character who most closely fits that description in Cinderella. Don't forget that in Cinderella some of the stock characters overlap e.g. villains/dames.

The Heroine

The story's female lead. Smart, brave and kind. A good character. Often in love with the hero.

The Hero

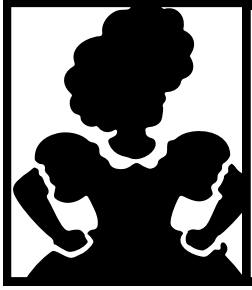
The story's male lead. Brave, clever and kind. A good character. Often in love with the heroine.

The Comic

Best friend to the main character. Friendly and funny. Makes mistakes and tells jokes. Involved in slapstick comedy scenes.

The Villain

Causes lots of trouble for the heroine and hero. Often bossy, sneaky or greedy. Gets booed but doesn't win.



The Dame

Talks to the audience. Wears big costumes and wigs. Played by a man. Exaggerated, loud and silly.

LESSON PLAN: COSTUMES

Pantomime costumes are big, bold and colourful. Costume designers and makers work hard to create several costumes for each performer. Everyman Cinderella costumes, by designer Stewart J Charlesworth.

Objectives: Consider what is needed in a pantomime costume and how costumes convey character.
Activity: Look closely at the following costume designs from Cinderella. Answer the questions about how the costumes look and what they tell us about each character. Use your ideas to develop your own costume and send your designs to us at the Everyman as part of our Cinderella costume competition!

What is interesting about this costume? Is it colourful? Are there fun details?

What do you think this character will be like based on their costume?

What is interesting about this costume? What do you notice most?

What do you think this character will be like based on their costume?

LESSON PLAN: MORE COSTUMES

By designer Stewart J Charlesworth

What is interesting about this costume?
Is it colourful? Are there fun details?

What do you think this character will be like based on their costume?

What is interesting about this costume?
What do you notice most?

What do you think this character will be like based on their costume?

COSTUME COMPETITION

Would you like to win tickets to see Tweedy's new show: Tweedy and the Missing Company of Sherlock Holmes during February half term? Oh yes you would? Have a go at designing your own pantomime costume for a chance to win up to four free tickets!

Activity: Choose one of the characters from Cinderella and design a costume for them. Think about what the character is like and how you can show this to the audience. Remember to use bright, bold colours that will show up well on the stage!

Send your finished design to Shirley Halse, our Panto Talks Co-ordinator, at Shirley.Halse@everymantheatre.org.uk by Tuesday 22 December for a chance to win 4 tickets on Mon 15th February, 2pm show*.*

Who have you designed your costume for?

Tell us a little about your design:

What is your name and age?

Name of school and contact details:

Are you happy for us to share your design on Everyman social media channels? YES / NO

LESSON PLAN: SET DESIGN

Pantomime sets are bright, bold, and full of magic! They help tell the story and create atmosphere. Traditional pantos often use painted backdrops of scenes such the palace, a magical cave or an enchanted forest. The Everyman Cinderella set designs are by Andrew Exeter.

Pantomimes move fast, so the set must change quickly and smoothly so designers often use flats which 'fly in' (painted boards which are lowered from above) and roll-on scenery on wheels. This means we can move quickly from one setting to another and keep the story moving. We also have a big 'front cloth' which covers the whole stage. This means our backstage team can do a full scene set changes - from Hard-up Hall to the palace, for example - upstage of (behind) the cloth. See if you can spot this during the show...

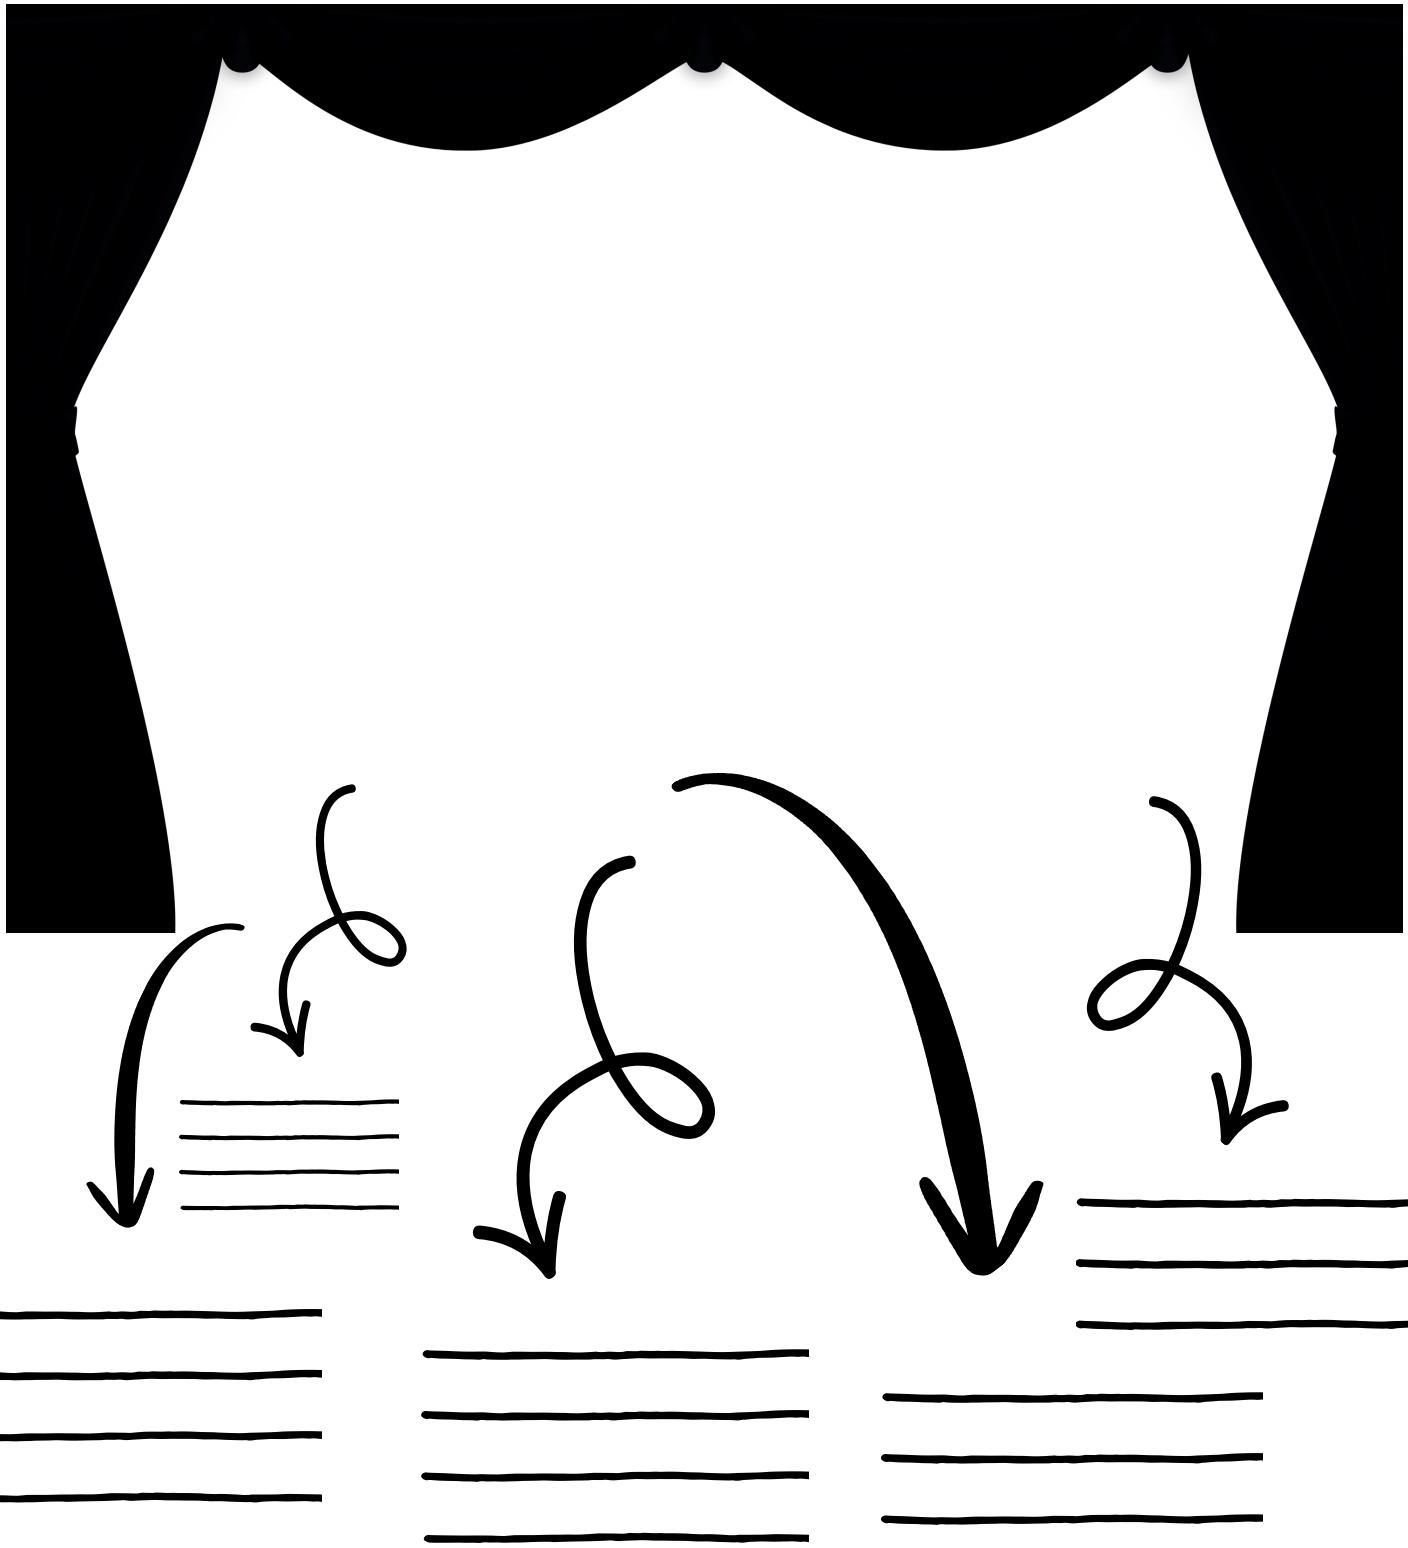
Objectives: Understand how setting links to character & helps tell the story.
Activity: The set designer is responsible for creating the world of the play on stage. Look at the designs and write down what you think each location will be. Write down the name of all the charcaters that you think you will find at each location.

LESSON PLAN: SET DESIGN

Objectives: Understand how setting links to character & helps tell the story/surprises the audience.

Activity: Ask students to think of a character they love. This can be a character from the pantomime or from another story that they enjoy or that you are studying in class. Either independently or as a class, write a list of places that you might find your favourite character and another list of places you are unlikely to find them. Choose one of the locations you are likely to find them and design it as a stage set. Think about details you might find and what might be in the foreground and background. Use the lines to describe what you have drawn and why.

Further activity: use plain paper, colouring pencils and scissors to design flats which could 'fly in' and roll-on scenery on wheels which can transform your set into a location that your character is unlikely to be in.



LESSON PLAN: LITERACY

Script writing is playful and challenging. Writers need to capture fast and believable dialogue which is easy for actors to understand and entertaining for the audience. Pantomime scripts need to move the plot forward quickly but still contain lots of jokes and space for physical comedy. Our Everyman Cinderella script is written by Sam Holmes.

Objectives: Understand the script writing format and how to capture realistic dialogue.
Activity 1: Write down a number of different ideas (e.g. favourite movie, best food to eat for breakfast, if cats are better than dogs) on scraps of paper and put them in a container. Ask a pair of students to pick out an idea. This will be their conversation topic. In front of the group, ask them to talk to each other about the topic. Try to write down their conversation as they are talking.

Notice that it is hard to have a conversation with lots of people watching and it's also hard to write down a conversation someone is having word for word. However, conversation (or dialogue) is the basis for scripts which means when we are chatting to our friends, we can also can pay attention to how we speak in order to make our writing more interesting. In a script, the writer needs to tell everyone what is happening only through speech and action.

Activity 2: Choose a familiar setting, it could be at the park, the shops, the cinema, the doctor's surgery. Ask students to write 2-5 lines of dialogue (and even actions) each for two characters who have just met. E.g. At the doctor's surgery and the doctor and the patient are speaking.

Doctor: Hello, what seems to be the problem?
Patient: My tongue's gone bright orange.
Doctor: That's strange. Let me take a look.
Patient: [sticks out tongue] loghnognomalisitdogtor?

Ask students to have a go at reading out their lines and then swap with another group. Do they make sense or do they need to add more spoken explanation or stage directions.

Further: Keep one of the characters the same but change the location. Write up to ten more lines of dialogue. Then you can read the first scene and the second scene one after the other to see what happens as one character (e.g. with a bright orange tongue) goes to the doctor and then the shops and so on.

Extra writing prompts inspired by Cinderella:*

1. In Cinderella, the Fairy Godmother transforms a pumpkin into a carriage. If you had a fairy godmother, what ordinary item would she take and what extraordinary thing would she change it into?

2. Imagine you have been invited to a royal ball, describe your evening - what is the setting like, what kind of food do they have, do you like the music?

3. Modern Cinderella - Cinderella is a very old fairy tale. Re-tell Cinderella's story as if it were set in 2026 (or even in 2036...).

LESSON PLAN: DRAMA & ORACY

Our emotions form the basis of sense of identity and how we connect with other. This lesson draws on drama and oracy skills to develop understanding how we express our emotions, both through words and body language.

Objectives: Learn the different expressions and body language we use to present different emotions. Explain the emotions being expressed even when the words don't match the feelings.

Activity 1: As a class, talk about each of the emotions/feelings on the grid. How do we show with our body and facial expressions that we are feeling one way or another? e.g. If we are happy, we smile, if we are tired, our shoulders might slump, we might sigh and our eyes might start to slowly close.

Cut out the resources (dialogue grid & emotions grid). Add some of your own sentences as a class/group or ask each student to do this individually. Put the folded sentences in one container and the folded emotions into another.

Challenge each student to take one paper from each container so they have a sentence and an emotion. Ask them to read the sentence whilst showing the emotion through their facial expression and body language.

Consider, as a class, how we respond when the emotion and sentence match or don't match. Why is it funny when someone says 'I am the world's most intelligent robot' sadly?

Activity 2: Pick out a few combinations of sentences and emotions that were particularly striking or memorable for your class. Together, or in groups, discuss what kind of character these lines might come from. For example, is the world's most intelligent robot sad because she can't show off her calculating skills to anyone else because they don't understand? Is the person who's noticed their friend has custard on their face angry because this was the custard they'd been waiting for all day?

Give this character a name, appearance, clothing, setting, job, likes and dislikes. This can be fun on a big piece of paper!

Challenge students to have a go at being in the 'hot seat' as their new character. They can try to tell the story of what happened to make them feel their strong emotion e.g. Sunday is custard day and I look forward to it all week, but this week my clumsy friend Patricia needed to come over to work on our art homework... The other members of the class can ask questions about what happened.

Further: You can add more complexity to the mix by pausing the game and picking out a new emotion which the student in the 'hot seat' must use when answering questions.

DRAMA & ORACY RESOURCES

Nonsense sentence	Line from our Cinderella script	Write your own sentence
I am the world's most intelligent robot	Hi Buttons. Were you just talking to yourself?
She ate the entire potato	Do you remember the plan? Get rid of Cinderella, marry that Prince bloke and nick his money!
My friend Alice has a palace	I'm your Fairy Godmother! Apologies about flying through your window. I'm lucky I got the right room.
You have custard on your face	This has to be the most magical evening of my life.

happy	sad	angry
tired	excited	loved
surprised	confused	calm
fear	disgust	hungry

ABOUT THE EVERYMAN THEATRE

The Everyman is Gloucestershire's theatre - and has been serving the county (and beyond) since 1891.

Our main auditorium is an architectural masterpiece designed by Frank Matcham that has inspired generations of performers. The common thread throughout the many years has always been our relationship with our audience - a relationship that we treasure.

The Everyman presents a wide range of productions, including ballet, opera, drama, dance, comedy, music events and our traditional family pantomime, as well as many community projects, education workshops and youth theatre sessions. Whether you are coming to the Everyman for a show, a workshop or even to dine or drink in our café, bar or restaurant, we would like to warmly welcome you and hope you return many times.

Look to our Irving Studio for family shows during the half-term holidays, including Hay! (perfect for the whole family and especially Deaf and Hard of Hearing audiences) and Pinocchio.

EVERYMAN
EDUCATION CENTRE

Introducing the Everyman Education Centre...

We celebrated our new Education Centre in November with its official opening by BAFTA-nominated actor Josh O'Connor and comedy legend Tweedy The Clown.

The space will provide free and heavily subsidised arts and culture initiatives, such as year round youth choirs and family clubs; bringing together the Everyman's own programmes as well as external organisations and community partners making use of the space.

Your young people might be interested in joining the Everyman Youth Theatre which runs on Thursdays and Saturdays during term time, or Can't Stop the Beat, our singing group for ages 7 - 14 which runs on Tuesdays after school. For more information about these groups, please visit everymantheatre.org.uk/get-involved.

We're always looking to work with and support teachers, schools and groups. Recent projects have included a collaborative choir, support with school productions, behind-the-scenes tours of the Theatre, and engaging talks from performing arts professionals sharing their experience and insight. If you'd like to explore opportunities for your group, we'd love to hear from you—please get in touch to start a conversation, email getinvolved@everymantheatre.org.uk

EVERYMAN
THEATRE · CHELTENHAM

THANK YOU

We hope these resources have helped support your students' understanding and experience of the pantomime! We hope you have had a wonderful Everyman Panto Talk or Workshop and enjoyed our magical show Cinderella.

We would love to see any work you have made using the Everyman Teaching Resources and we would really welcome any feedback on the Resources themselves. Get in touch with our Education and Community department by emailing getinvolved@everymantheatre.org.uk. If you can spare a minute to complete our online feedback form, this will help us develop useful resources for next year:
https://forms.cloud.microsoft/e/n6PedcUhVw

If you have any students who really love the pantomime, we are running Panto Workshops on Monday 21 December at the Everyman Education Centre for ages 4 - 11. Tickets available on our website.

With Seasons Greetings
from the Everyman Education & Community Team.

